

Are You for "Preparedness?" The best preparedness for man or woman comes from living in harmony with law. In Summer cut out the heavy foods that tax strength. Eat Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the food that contains all the body-building material in the whole wheat grain in a digestible form. For breakfast with milk or cream; for luncheon with berries or other fruits.

Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

CANDIDATE HUGHES PLAYS DEMOS FOR PROSPERITY CLAIMS

(Continued from Page One)

Interested in "good housekeeping" and the means of effecting it. "We must have in this country a different notion about the conduct of our business than we have had in the years gone by," he said. "This world is not the world of even twenty-five years ago. This world is a world that has found itself. It has found itself in the depression of a terrible depression. Horrible as the spectacle of war, frightful as the waste, we cannot look upon them without realizing that a new Europe is emerging from this struggle. We cannot contemplate conditions of the twentieth century without knowing that there is to be a new spirit in the United States if our prosperity is to have a firm foundation. It must be a spirit which demands efficient, impartial government in the interests of all the people.

"It is easy for some to become enthusiastic when the bands are playing and the flags unfurled, when they hear the strains of the national anthem and the crowds are around them. But we must have a new spirit of enthusiasm in the hundred work of the administration, the spirit of patriotism in the administration of government. That is the hardest

THIRD EDITION AMERICAN WHITE BOOK HAS JUST BEEN ISSUED FOR BLOOD OR CHILD PLAGE

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—The third edition of the American White Book, containing tabulated copies of correspondence exchanged by the state department with European belligerents during recent months has just been issued by the department. It contains no important communications, the substance of which has not been published, but reveals textually for the first time some of the memorandum dealing with armed belligerents, the presence of allied cruisers off American ports and other subjects.

Secretary Lansing's suggestion that merchantmen be disarmed is shown to have been firmly rejected by all of the allied powers. The British ambassador, in a memorandum dated March 23, summing up their position by saying the allies are "unable to agree that upon a non-guaranteed German promise, human life may be surrendered defenseless to the mercy of an enemy who in circumstances of this kind is in many others, has shown himself to be both faithless and lawless."

Secretary Lansing on November 16, 1915 it is shown, sent a note to the German ambassador summarizing a dozen cases in which German officers and men had escaped from German cruisers interned in the United States, declaring that "the United States government regards the actions of these men as contrary to its express instructions and as breaches of honor and conduct," and requesting that the German government promptly return any of these men who may be within German jurisdiction to the United States.

It is disclosed that in a note dated March 26 answering a complaint from Secretary Lansing regarding the presence of British cruisers near American territorial waters the British ambassador expressed surprise at the state department's attempt to distinguish between different parts of the high seas and says that he is "unaware of the existence of any rules or principle of international law which render belligerent operations which are legitimate in any part of the high seas, illegitimate in another."

The latest chapters of the correspondence with Germany over Lusitania case are not included in the White book.

FOR BLOOD OR CHILD PLAGE

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—After thirty-four and one-half ounces of blood had been taken from six persons today who have recovered from infantile paralysis, to be used in the preparation of the human serum which is said to have a 100 per cent cure for the disease, the health authorities tonight issued a call for more volunteers, stating that the supply of the serum is inadequate.

One of the sufferers to whom the human serum treatment is being administered is Dr. Leroy B. Vail, whose condition is said to have shown decided improvement since he was thirty-five years old.

William Ashman Major, president of the Independent Iron Workers Union, died from the disease today in a hospital at Elizabeth, N. J. He had been ill about a week and was thirty-five years old.

Health officers from the District of Columbia and from Tennessee discussed the epidemic today with Dr. Charles E. Banks, in charge of the federal service here. Three more surgeons, it was announced, have been added to the federal staff to assist in regulating interstate travel.

For the first time this year the death rate has exceeded that of a corresponding period of 1915. The health department tonight attributed the increase to the epidemic of infantile paralysis. The rate for the first thirty-five weeks of 1916 was 14.58 to the thousand against 14.57 a year ago.

PRECAUTIONS ARE EXTENDED

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 14.—Both city and state health authorities today extended the scope of their precautionary measures to prevent the spread of infantile paralysis. New orders were issued by the state health department requiring certificates of health boards for the bringing of household goods or second hand furniture into Pennsylvania from surrounding states and a campaign was begun against a practice of permitting food to remain exposed in stores.

Six deaths from infantile paralysis and nine new cases were reported today from the state outside of Philadelphia. Eighty-five deaths have occurred, forty-seven in Philadelphia.

London On Guard

LONDON, Aug. 14.—The Times today urged the government to enforce a most rigid guard against infantile paralysis now prevalent in New York.

"At the moment when we have huge armies of men in training," says the Times, "an outbreak of this disease would be a great disaster. For the sake of our children, we must take due precautions. Quarantine regulations coming from New York and other infected areas and a thorough disinfection carried out in all cases where a shadow of doubt exists. If it was possible to deal with the epidemic spread here, we shall only have ourselves to blame."

TELLS HOW MAILS ARE "CENSORED"

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—An explanatory statement of how Great Britain's examination of mails was being conducted was sent today to Secretary Lansing by the English embassy.

Figures given in the statement show the average time for examination of intercepted mail from seven to three days. The minimum delay to mail between the United States and Holland is given at two days and the maximum at seven. Danish mails have been delayed from seven to ten days when it has been necessary to remove them from a ship, otherwise only four days.

"It is admitted," says the statement, "that at the outset, neutral countries were in no way concerned with the subject of a delay which is greatly regretted and which has since been reduced to a minimum. It must not be imagined that the mails were removed from neutral ships for examination without careful consideration of the arrangements which would be required to deal with them as quickly as possible. All preparations which seemed necessary were taken, but unfortunately those responsible for the removal of some of the difficulties which would be encountered."

SHIP BILL DEBATE DRAGS

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 14.—Debate on the ship bill today resolved itself into a time-killing discussion to await the report of the finance committee on revenue.

Leaders assured senators in charge of the shipping bill that they would agree to vote on it the moment the revenue bill reached the senate but not before that time. They will not dispose of it and permit other matters to intervene.

At no time today were there more than a dozen senators in the chamber while republican speeches in opposition to the ship bill were made. Senators Weeks, Gallinger and Sterling declared it to be a step toward socialism and a declaration of war against the American ship building industry.

STRONG FOR WILSON

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—Huston Thompson, assistant attorney general of the United States, who went to Denver last week as the representative of the United States to attend the annual dinner of the J. P. Morgan Club visited the western headquarters of the democratic national committee here today and reported a strong sentiment for the re-election of president Wilson among the women of Colorado, an equal suffrage state.

CHOLERA IN NAGASAKI

NAGASAKI, Japan, Aug. 14.—An outbreak of cholera here has resulted in 48 deaths. One hundred and ninety cases so far have been recorded, a dispatch from Yokohama on August 5 stated that there were 52 cases of cholera in that port and that the Japanese government had declared a quarantine against the city.

The Japanese steamer Hawaii Maru, bound for Tacoma, was quarantined with 15 cases of cholera on board. The ship was later released and sailed for Tacoma on August 10.

FIRST HOSPITAL CAR'S COMPLETED

(Republican A. P. Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, Aug. 14.—The first hospital car to be built by the United States government has been completed by a local car building concern and will leave Chicago tomorrow for San Antonio, Texas.

MEX SNIPERS STILL BUSY ON THE RIO GRANDE

(Continued from Page One)

returned to Mexico City to make a personal report on conditions in the north to Carranza.

Newspapers dated August 9, arriving from Mexico City today, spoke of the strike of Syndicalists in the capital as being ended, but deplored the harm done the poor. Not only were the people unable to work, says El Pueblo, but extortionate prices were charged for drinking water and candles, which were made necessary by the water-works and electric lights being thrown out of commission.

Food Riots in Chihuahua

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 14.—Official reports received today by General Frederick Funston, commanding southern department, confirm accounts of grave conditions in Chihuahua state and many food riots within the last few days. These reports also confirm the execution of General Leon Salazar, noted revolutionist. The information reaching department headquarters indicated that General Trevino was seeking to keep the disorder from spreading.

Villa Nurses Wounded

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico, Aug. 14.—While Villa was hiding back in the mountains nursing his old wounds a band of his personal followers attacked and routed at San Jacinto, near Escamela, by General Martin Ramos, who lost a captain killed and had his own horse wounded in the fight, according to an official report received today by General Trevino.

Ramos said he believed Villa led the band of his personal followers to the mountains near San Jacinto, near Escamela, by General Martin Ramos, who lost a captain killed and had his own horse wounded in the fight, according to an official report received today by General Trevino.

Guardsmen Are Pardoned

COLUMBUS, N. M., Aug. 14.—The twenty-eight Massachusetts guardsmen, who signed a petition supporting the statements made by Private Hugh Clarke, a comrade now under arrest on the charge of sending out false and malicious reports concerning his superior officers, have been pardoned for their part in the affair, it was announced here today. Clarke, whose articles appeared in a Holyoke, Mass., newspaper, will face a general court martial in the latter part of this month, according to a statement at regimental headquarters.

To Combat Dengue Fever

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 14.—State and federal authorities today took steps to eliminate mosquitoes in this vicinity in an effort to prevent the bringing of dengue fever to this border from interior Mexico, where it is said to be raging. Dengue is epidemic at several interior points, according to Dr. H. C. Hall, Texas' range officer here, there being one thousand cases at Victoria alone, he said.

No formal quarantine has been declared as yet.

Four hundred and thirty-two Mexican laborers were admitted into the United States by immigration authorities here today. The Mexicans are said to be enroute to the Texas cotton fields.

This is the largest number of immigrants admitted through this port in more than a year.

Sent to Columbus

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 14.—Six army fliers who recently qualified for the rank of junior military aviators, received orders from the war department today to proceed from San Diego to Columbus, N. M., to join the First aero squadron, under the command of Captain Benjamin D. Foulger.

The officers are Lieutenant Leo G. Hefferman, George H. Brashear, E. Reinburg, John C. McDonnell, John W. Butts and Sheldon H. Wheeler. They will leave for the Mexican border Wednesday. The first aero squadron now numbers twenty-four aviators.

During July, students at the North Island training school had made 637 flights without a serious accident.

To Postpone Entrainment

DENVER, Aug. 14.—Orders were received today by Adjutant-General H. P. Gamble from the central department, U. S. A., at Chicago, directing him to postpone entrainment of the Colorado national guard units for the Mexican border. No explanation of the order was given.

WORKING BASIS TO AVERT STRIKE

ALREADY IN SIGHT

(Continued from Page One)

mark of Mr. Garretson upon hearing the report.

There was discussion today of the possibility of the president being chief arbitrator in the dispute but his position was understood to be that he has not the time. There was a possibility that instead, he might name the so-called neutrals on the board.

The president's first conference was with representatives of the men, headed by Mr. Garretson, the delegation, consisting of the executive officers of the four brotherhoods and

Remnants Half Price

A great variety of Remnants of woollens and wash materials in white, plain colors, floral effects and novelties. A wonderful lot of full dress lengths; most of them are new remnants left from this summer's most popular fabrics. See them on the counter, Half Price.

Made Up Curtains Half Price

A very pleasing variety of made up Curtains of lace, net, scrim and voile, in broken lots of one to three pairs of a kind.

Your Choice at Half Price

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their hotel and return to the White House whenever the president desired them. They waited throughout the afternoon while the president conferred with the railroad managers, but the only word that came was the summons to meet with the executive again tomorrow afternoon.

Three hours after the employees' representatives had left the White House the employers' managers met the president. Elsie B. Went, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania, presented the railroads' side of the case. The president requested him to explain in detail wherein the employer and employees disagreed. When that had been made clear, Mr. Wilson urged that for patriotic reasons the two sides get together as quickly as possible.

The railroad managers immediately upon leaving the White House went into a secret conference, which still was in session late tonight.

Judge W. L. Crampton, the federal board of mediation, who returned here early this morning with Secretary Tumulty, conferred with the president five times during the day and was in constant communication with the representatives of the railroads and the employees. Late this afternoon he was summoned to the White House and went to the hotel where the managers' committee were meeting in order to keep abreast of their discussion.

While only the brief formal statement was forthcoming from the White House, it was indicated by officials that for the present the president regarded the situation as out of his hands with the next move up to the conference.

The chief feature of the "contingency proposition" of the roads, which is understood the road managers considered modifying or withdrawing at tonight's conference, is a provision eliminating entirely all double overtime or performing two classes of service. The proposition was presented by the roads after the men had made the demand for an eight-hour day and extra pay for overtime.

Shortly before midnight the managers said that while the conference might continue for several hours they would have no announcement to make before tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Arbitration of differences between the railroads and their employees will be the outcome of the conference in Washington between President Wilson and representatives of the roads and the men, was the opinion expressed here tonight by G. W. W. Hanger of the federal board of mediation and conciliation.

"When the president expresses a wish it is virtually a command," said

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their hotel and return to the White House whenever the president desired them. They waited throughout the afternoon while the president conferred with the railroad managers, but the only word that came was the summons to meet with the executive again tomorrow afternoon.

Three hours after the employees' representatives had left the White House the employers' managers met the president. Elsie B. Went, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania, presented the railroads' side of the case. The president requested him to explain in detail wherein the employer and employees disagreed. When that had been made clear, Mr. Wilson urged that for patriotic reasons the two sides get together as quickly as possible.

The railroad managers immediately upon leaving the White House went into a secret conference, which still was in session late tonight.

Judge W. L. Crampton, the federal board of mediation, who returned here early this morning with Secretary Tumulty, conferred with the president five times during the day and was in constant communication with the representatives of the railroads and the employees. Late this afternoon he was summoned to the White House and went to the hotel where the managers' committee were meeting in order to keep abreast of their discussion.

While only the brief formal statement was forthcoming from the White House, it was indicated by officials that for the present the president regarded the situation as out of his hands with the next move up to the conference.

The chief feature of the "contingency proposition" of the roads, which is understood the road managers considered modifying or withdrawing at tonight's conference, is a provision eliminating entirely all double overtime or performing two classes of service. The proposition was presented by the roads after the men had made the demand for an eight-hour day and extra pay for overtime.

Shortly before midnight the managers said that while the conference might continue for several hours they would have no announcement to make before tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Arbitration of differences between the railroads and their employees will be the outcome of the conference in Washington between President Wilson and representatives of the roads and the men, was the opinion expressed here tonight by G. W. W. Hanger of the federal board of mediation and conciliation.

"When the president expresses a wish it is virtually a command," said

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their hotel and return to the White House whenever the president desired them. They waited throughout the afternoon while the president conferred with the railroad managers, but the only word that came was the summons to meet with the executive again tomorrow afternoon.

Three hours after the employees' representatives had left the White House the employers' managers met the president. Elsie B. Went, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania, presented the railroads' side of the case. The president requested him to explain in detail wherein the employer and employees disagreed. When that had been made clear, Mr. Wilson urged that for patriotic reasons the two sides get together as quickly as possible.

The railroad managers immediately upon leaving the White House went into a secret conference, which still was in session late tonight.

Judge W. L. Crampton, the federal board of mediation, who returned here early this morning with Secretary Tumulty, conferred with the president five times during the day and was in constant communication with the representatives of the railroads and the employees. Late this afternoon he was summoned to the White House and went to the hotel where the managers' committee were meeting in order to keep abreast of their discussion.

While only the brief formal statement was forthcoming from the White House, it was indicated by officials that for the present the president regarded the situation as out of his hands with the next move up to the conference.

The chief feature of the "contingency proposition" of the roads, which is understood the road managers considered modifying or withdrawing at tonight's conference, is a provision eliminating entirely all double overtime or performing two classes of service. The proposition was presented by the roads after the men had made the demand for an eight-hour day and extra pay for overtime.

Shortly before midnight the managers said that while the conference might continue for several hours they would have no announcement to make before tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Arbitration of differences between the railroads and their employees will be the outcome of the conference in Washington between President Wilson and representatives of the roads and the men, was the opinion expressed here tonight by G. W. W. Hanger of the federal board of mediation and conciliation.

"When the president expresses a wish it is virtually a command," said

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their hotel and return to the White House whenever the president desired them. They waited throughout the afternoon while the president conferred with the railroad managers, but the only word that came was the summons to meet with the executive again tomorrow afternoon.

Three hours after the employees' representatives had left the White House the employers' managers met the president. Elsie B. Went, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania, presented the railroads' side of the case. The president requested him to explain in detail wherein the employer and employees disagreed. When that had been made clear, Mr. Wilson urged that for patriotic reasons the two sides get together as quickly as possible.

The railroad managers immediately upon leaving the White House went into a secret conference, which still was in session late tonight.

Judge W. L. Crampton, the federal board of mediation, who returned here early this morning with Secretary Tumulty, conferred with the president five times during the day and was in constant communication with the representatives of the railroads and the employees. Late this afternoon he was summoned to the White House and went to the hotel where the managers' committee were meeting in order to keep abreast of their discussion.

While only the brief formal statement was forthcoming from the White House, it was indicated by officials that for the present the president regarded the situation as out of his hands with the next move up to the conference.

The chief feature of the "contingency proposition" of the roads, which is understood the road managers considered modifying or withdrawing at tonight's conference, is a provision eliminating entirely all double overtime or performing two classes of service. The proposition was presented by the roads after the men had made the demand for an eight-hour day and extra pay for overtime.

Shortly before midnight the managers said that while the conference might continue for several hours they would have no announcement to make before tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Arbitration of differences between the railroads and their employees will be the outcome of the conference in Washington between President Wilson and representatives of the roads and the men, was the opinion expressed here tonight by G. W. W. Hanger of the federal board of mediation and conciliation.

"When the president expresses a wish it is virtually a command," said

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their hotel and return to the White House whenever the president desired them. They waited throughout the afternoon while the president conferred with the railroad managers, but the only word that came was the summons to meet with the executive again tomorrow afternoon.

Three hours after the employees' representatives had left the White House the employers' managers met the president. Elsie B. Went, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania, presented the railroads' side of the case. The president requested him to explain in detail wherein the employer and employees disagreed. When that had been made clear, Mr. Wilson urged that for patriotic reasons the two sides get together as quickly as possible.

The railroad managers immediately upon leaving the White House went into a secret conference, which still was in session late tonight.

Judge W. L. Crampton, the federal board of mediation, who returned here early this morning with Secretary Tumulty, conferred with the president five times during the day and was in constant communication with the representatives of the railroads and the employees. Late this afternoon he was summoned to the White House and went to the hotel where the managers' committee were meeting in order to keep abreast of their discussion.

While only the brief formal statement was forthcoming from the White House, it was indicated by officials that for the present the president regarded the situation as out of his hands with the next move up to the conference.

The chief feature of the "contingency proposition" of the roads, which is understood the road managers considered modifying or withdrawing at tonight's conference, is a provision eliminating entirely all double overtime or performing two classes of service. The proposition was presented by the roads after the men had made the demand for an eight-hour day and extra pay for overtime.

Shortly before midnight the managers said that while the conference might continue for several hours they would have no announcement to make before tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Arbitration of differences between the railroads and their employees will be the outcome of the conference in Washington between President Wilson and representatives of the roads and the men, was the opinion expressed here tonight by G. W. W. Hanger of the federal board of mediation and conciliation.

"When the president expresses a wish it is virtually a command," said

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their hotel and return to the White House whenever the president desired them. They waited throughout the afternoon while the president conferred with the railroad managers, but the only word that came was the summons to meet with the executive again tomorrow afternoon.

Three hours after the employees' representatives had left the White House the employers' managers met the president. Elsie B. Went, assistant general manager of the Pennsylvania, presented the railroads' side of the case. The president requested him to explain in detail wherein the employer and employees disagreed. When that had been made clear, Mr. Wilson urged that for patriotic reasons the two sides get together as quickly as possible.

The railroad managers immediately upon leaving the White House went into a secret conference, which still was in session late tonight.

Judge W. L. Crampton, the federal board of mediation, who returned here early this morning with Secretary Tumulty, conferred with the president five times during the day and was in constant communication with the representatives of the railroads and the employees. Late this afternoon he was summoned to the White House and went to the hotel where the managers' committee were meeting in order to keep abreast of their discussion.

While only the brief formal statement was forthcoming from the White House, it was indicated by officials that for the present the president regarded the situation as out of his hands with the next move up to the conference.

The chief feature of the "contingency proposition" of the roads, which is understood the road managers considered modifying or withdrawing at tonight's conference, is a provision eliminating entirely all double overtime or performing two classes of service. The proposition was presented by the roads after the men had made the demand for an eight-hour day and extra pay for overtime.

Shortly before midnight the managers said that while the conference might continue for several hours they would have no announcement to make before tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Aug. 14.—Arbitration of differences between the railroads and their employees will be the outcome of the conference in Washington between President Wilson and representatives of the roads and the men, was the opinion expressed here tonight by G. W. W. Hanger of the federal board of mediation and conciliation.

"When the president expresses a wish it is virtually a command," said

Mr. Hanger, "and as a rule his wishes to the White House and met the president in the green room."

The conference lasted two hours. Mr. Garretson did most of the talking, but the president, who had asked him for a full statement of the situation as the men viewed it. Mr. Garretson pointed out, it is understood, that the only concrete proposal made in the entire dispute has come from the men, and said they felt that before they took further steps they should be advised what attitude the employers will assume and stand on. He argued that the railroad men summoned the mediators to New York and then had no mediation proposal to submit.

Sufficient time has elapsed since the strike first was suggested that enough delays have ensued, Mr. Garretson is understood to have declared, to permit the railroads to submit any sort of an unqualified proposal which they might have in mind.

Many questions regarding the situation were asked by the president and the brotherhood representative were impressed by his grasp of the situation.

When the employees' representatives emerged from the White House they faced a battery of cameras and about a hundred newspapermen. They were willing to pose for pictures but unwilling to talk.

"As long as this matter is in the president's hands, we will have no statement to make," Mr. Garretson said.

Mr. Garretson added, however, that the brotherhood representatives would go to their